DAILY DEVOTIONAL FROM PASTOR SELL

Monday, February 28

Karl Vatters is a teacher and commentator on the small church in America. He has written and spoken extensively on pastoring the small church and rejoicing in the mission of congregations of fewer than one hundred. In a recent post he asked the question, “Are you or your church living in fear or living in faith?” So often small churches living in fear of not having enough money or an all-around program of church activities, rather than living in faith and boldly doing what they can. People do that too. They worry too much or cannot complete a project or feel unworthy when compared to other people.

John 6:29 Jesus answered, “The work of God is this: to believe in the one he has sent.” Life is different when you lay aside fear and live in faith.
