DAILY DEVOTIONAL FROM PASTOR SELL

Monday, February 7

I read an interesting factoid from 1993 recently about a man who drove his Citroen car into the desert of Morocco. He soon found himself without transportation back to the city when his car malfunctioned. Having no way to call for help, he took his car apart and fashioned a motorcycle which he drove back into town. Unfortunately, motorcycles are not permitted in Morocco so a large fine was levied.

Sometimes the church needs to think beyond Plan B and get really creative. We may not always be excited about the new thing but we need to ask ourselves “Is this doing ministry in Jesus’ name?” The disciples didn’t always understand what Jesus was doing but they remained with him, learning and growing in understanding. Do not give up on your baptismal calling just because you are passing through a rough spot in life.
