DAILY DEVOTIONAL FROM PASTOR SELL

Monday, June 7

Oh, those senior moments! Sometimes they can bring you up short when they appear. That was the case with the recent death of the little birds. I had bird houses in the garden. I had a pond where the birds often came for a drink or a bath. I had lots of green grass. What I did not have was a bird feeder. I feed the fish in the pond before I leave the house every morning. I feed the cat every day because she howls if I forget. I even occasionally buy food for my daughter and son -in-law. How could I totally, for months, forget feeding the birds I so enjoy watching? Needless to say, there is now a whimsical bird feeder hanging in the tree by the side of the house.

Senior moments can be frustrating. On the other hand, they do help us remember and get things in order. Let us not let senior moment keep us from thanking God for all his benefits to us. Let us not forget Sunday worship happens every Sunday. Same time. Same places – in person or livestream.
