Archaeology magazine recently reported on a hiker's incredible find. Here is the story:

ALINGSAS, SWEDEN—The AFP reports that more than 50 Bronze Age artifacts were discovered in western Sweden by Tomas Karlsson, an orienteering enthusiast. The 2,500-year-old cache of bronze items includes necklaces, chains, needles, and eyelets used to decorate and construct clothing. Johan Ling of the University of Gothenburg said the objects may have belonged to high-status women. The items were reportedly lying on the surface of the ground by some boulders, and may have been dug up by animals.

Fifty ancient artifacts just laying by a stone in plain sight waiting to be discovered. God is like that. He is all around us and in plain sight just waiting to be found and acknowledged. God is not lost. He is here among us in the Holy Spirit. He calls out to us in so many ways. Open your mind, heart, and spirit – you may be surprised to find something of great value.
