DAILY DEVOTIONAL FROM PASTOR SELL

Tuesday, November 30

I've been waiting for almost three weeks for the hardware to complete the renovations to my laundry area. When you have a Victorian house and you want to stay with that décor, you special order. I needed twelve cast iron shelf brackets, a small fold down ironing board (yes, I still iron some things), and a Victorian air drier. The air drier is suspended from the ceiling on a pulley system and was made in England but has an American branch. When it did not arrive, I emailed a message only to learn the company's communications office was in New Zealand. Tom and I have been emailing back and forth but the time difference is driving me crazy. Waiting is hard!

Waiting for that first driver's license is hard. Waiting to feel better during an illness is hard. Waiting for a child to call home is hard. Waiting for the birth of baby is hard. Scripture reminds us 'all things work together for good for those who love God' (Romans 8). Be patient the waiting will pass.
