DAILY DEVOTIONAL FROM PASTOR SELL

Thursday, October 28

I sat at my desk in Cooper House the other day facing Brandt Blvd. while I worked on some future devotions. A bright red cardinal came and sat right on the window ledge. He chirped incessantly until I stopped and looked at him. We stared at each other, and I went back to typing. He chirped again and beat at the window. I stopped again. This went on for almost ten minutes. Finally, he flew into the bushes and was gone. It was a good reminder we need to stop occasionally and just wonder about the world God has given us. The devotions were important but a few minutes with a cardinal were important too.
