DAILY DEVOTIONAL FROM PASTOR SELL

Wednesday, October 6

It is officially Autumn as of 9/22. The weather has noticeably changed. It is a little cooler. The days are shorter. The leaves are changing. School and Fall activities have begun. Fair time has started. Harvest will go on for several more weeks. The world around us is taking stock and moving on to the new season of life.

Periodically we do that too when we face life's milestones – graduations, marriages, children, job changes, and retirement. These are time of re-evaluation and preparation for change. I retired a little over a year ago and my perspective has changed considerably in that time. I am no longer rigidly tied to my date book. I 'play in the dirt' more than I used to. I daydream. When we have changes in our lives it is more important than ever to hold fast to that which does not change. God's love and care are part of that unchanging world.
