DAILY DEVOTIONAL FROM PASTOR SELL

Thursday, September 16

Fall is upon us and one of the flowers of the season which dot the landscape is the Black-Eyed Susan. The yellow petals with black centers add a splash of color as the exuberance of Spring and Summer fade to the darker colors of autumn. The chrysanthemums will soon bloom, and we will know winter is not far away.

In every season of life God has a way of saying 'I'm still here with beauty and wonder.' God is with us not only in nature but in the life, death and resurrection of Jesus AND the promise of eternal life. Our God is a loving and generous god who never wearies of declaring 'I AM Here.'
